

Descendants of Daniel Malone

Generation 1

1. DANIEL<sup>1</sup> MALONE was born about 1643 in Kiluccan, Westmeath, Ireland. He died about 03 Aug 1688 in Southwark Parish, Prince George, Virginia, USA. He married Mary Harrison (daughter of William Harrison and Rebecca Mnu) in 1669 in Charles City, Charles, Virginia, USA. She was born in 1645 in Charles City, Charles, Virginia, USA<sup>1</sup>. She died about 1693 in Virginia, USA.

Notes for Daniel Malone:

According to the Malone and Allied Families, Second and Revised Edition (pg. 10), He came to Virginia about 1655 and is the first known generation of Southern Malones.

The same book also says that he probably was dead by 8-3-1688 and that his wife Mary, remarried, possibly to a John Raine.

Daniel Malone and Mary Harrison's son Robert Malone is said to have been an orphan on 8-3-1688 and was apprenticed out to a Samuel Tatem. He was probably a teenager at this time.

There are a number of name and date conflicts and discrepancies associated with this Daniel Malone on the various Malone family trees on-line. Many family trees on Ancestry.com show him to have married, besides Mary Harrison, a Mary Busby and a Susan A. Floraday, which are probably a different Daniel Malone and most likely further down the family tree and linked to the original Daniel Malone. For this reason I'm including several "probable" names of the children of Daniel Malone and Mary Harrison. Although, some of the birth dates are before the marriage of 1669 or 1675.

I have included at least four "possible" children of Daniel Malone and Mary Harrison, but only a Robert Malone is mentioned in the above named Malone book. Many more children of Daniel and Mary are shown in various on-line family trees but these seem "suspect" to me as some are mentioned twice in the same tree and some of the birth and death dates are also "suspect" as they could not possibly be accurate if only because of chronological time lines.

Research Notes:

It is uncertain when members of the Malone family first reached the Colonial American shores, although family tradition is strong "that Malones are descended from the early Governor Moore of the Bermudas, through the intermarriage of Moores and Tuckers." [11 p 11] There is no documentation found to substantiate this claim, however. The 1946 book of Eva Earnshaw Malone titled Jeremiah Dumas Malone stated that "Daniel Malone came to Virginia from County Westmeath, Ireland in 1655, a royalist fleeing from Cromwell." [22 p 13] We have been unable to find primary or secondary documentation for this statement, though the historical facts would agree with it, in spite of the fact that Daniel Malone would have been 12 years old in 1655. [94b] Family member Clint Malone has done research on this very subject. To quote from his documented research work:

The importance of the Irish-English struggle to the Malone family climaxed in the time from 1649-1655. Murder and pillaging of the Irish families and land reached horrific levels. Oliver Cromwell landed in Dublin in 1640, and the following months would prove most horrid in Irish history. P. T. Sherlock states that Cromwell's purpose was to inflict a "sterner and firmer policy" on Ireland. Many women and children were banished to the West Indies, where they would "starve and die and rot"... On September 11, 1649 Cromwell massacred 2,600 members of the garrison and other townspeople in Drogheda... The County of Westmeath (the Malone family home county) is not far west of Drogheda, and news of the massacre spread quickly... During this time Malone ideas of refuge and freedom in America were born. [95d, p 5]

Daniel Malone 1-1

Daniel Malone 1-1 is this southern Malone family's apparent earliest known Virginia ancestor. [1, p 6; 11 p 10; 29, p 77] We know very little about him or his immediate descendants because most Charles City County records were destroyed in 1862 by McClelland's Union Army in the Civil War. What few records are available reveal the following:

Daniel Malone 1-1 is first recorded in Charles City County at a court in Westover on 2-1-1665 [94b]

giving a deposition to the court justice Robert Wynne, who is also a Malone ancestor. In this deposition Daniel is noted to be "aged 22 years or thereabouts," making his birth date about 1643. Court Justice Col. Robert Wynne was at this time about 43 years old. [10, p 99 See also "The Wynne Family" Chapter for documentation.] The next Malone noted in extant records occurs ten years later in 1675 when "Mary Maloone" and Christopher Harrison witnessed an affidavit made by Rebecca Harrison. [94c2] Because no other Malones are mentioned besides these two in Charles City County until the early 1690's, and no other Mary Malone is noted in records until 40 years later in 1717 [104] , it could be assumed Daniel and Mary Malone were husband and wife, though no proof of their relationship is known to exist. The next record of Daniel Malone is again found in Charles City Co., VA in 1679 when "Dan!. Malone" is a defendant in a civil suit with Eusebias King, noted in Court Orders three times in the winter and spring of 1679. [94c2] Daniel would have been about 36 years old at this time. If Daniel Malone is indeed the progenitor of the Virginia Malones, he was probably dead by 8-3-1688 and his wife remarried. At a court on that date, "Robert Mallone, an orphan, and with consent of his father-in-law John Raine (?), chooses Samuel Tatem his guardian, who promises (to) allow the orphan at the end of his term, the usual things, and to use his utmost endeavor to cure his head." [94k] (We must remember that in Colonial records of that era "father-in-law" was also used to mean "stepfather.") [11 p. 7] Robert's head must have healed, because he received from the Charles City Co. Court 200 lbs of tobacco for killing wolves in 1694.

[94k] Robert must have been a very young man in 1694. No further mention of Robert, Mary or Daniel Malone is found in existing Charles City Co. records. A Robert Malone married Mary Harrison in Somerset Co, MD. in 1728, [ but he is not likely to be the same Robert Malone, since the Somerset Co. Robert lived until 1779, which would make him about 100 years old at his death. [415] (See also "The Robert Malone 3- 23" chapter.) What does stand out in these records is how intimately this Malone family was related to the Harrison family in the few records we have of them. [84, 86, 94c2, 98, 112, 124a, 154, 233c]

From the above records we can suggest the following summary: Daniel Malone 1-1, born about 1643 and living in Charles City, Co, VA appears to be the earliest Virginia Malone and probable progenitor of the southern Malone family. [ 94b, 94c2] It would appear that his wife was Mary _ _ _ , noted in records there dated 1675.

[94c2] How many children he may have had is unknown, but it is likely that one child was Robert Malone who was not of age in 1688, and that his Malone mother had remarried John Raine [94k] It would seem, then, that Daniel Malone had died by 1688 and his widow had married John Raine. [94k] Robert Malone must have been a young man on his own by 1694. [94k] There is no proof of these relationships, but since Daniel, Mary and Robert are the only Malones mentioned in Charles City County, VA records, the circumstantial evidence is suggestive. The other Malone boys were probably too young to be apprenticed out at the time of that record.

Daniel Malone and Mary Harrison had the following children:

- i. ROBERT<sup>2</sup> MALONE (son of Daniel Malone and Mary Harrison) was born about 1672 in Charles City, Charles, Virginia, USA. He died about 1694 in Charles City, Charles, Virginia, USA.

Notes for Anne Elizabeth Tucker?:

This Anne or Ann Elizabeth Tucker may not be the correct one for William Malone Sr.

The Malone and Allied Families second and revised edition on page 112 says that this Ann (Anne) Tucker, daughter of William Tucker was not William Malone Sr's wife. No other wife's name is found in the book but many family trees on-one do show This Ann Tucker to be the wife but these are probably incorrect as they this William Malone to be the son of Nathaniel, not Daniel.

Notes for Kasper Delmar Malone:

Kasper 'Stranger' Malone, A Brief Biography

Kasper Malone was born in 1909 on the Malone farm near Paducah Kentucky. His father was 65 years old and his mother was 41 at the time of his birth. His given name was Kanoy, given to him by his sister, Vadis. But he wasn't too pleased with that and later on changed it to Kasper. As he puts it, "I was born before birth certificates, so I just named myself." His name can be found on various documents spelled as "Caspar," "Casper" or "Kasper," finally settling on "Kasper" in his later years.

In 1912, when he was three years old, Kasper Malone's brother gave him a beat-up, old cornet. By the time he was five, he was playing loud. The cornet was the first of many instruments Kasper played in his ninety plus years as a musician. He has played swing with the Jack Teagarden All Stars, old time with the Melody Men, classical music with numerous orchestras, and just about everything in between.

When he was fifteen, he sold his personal effects and left home. He was picked up by two boys headed to Miami but found Miami too expensive so he headed back north. His ride stopped for gas in Armuchee Georgia and there just happened to be a band tuning up. Kasper said, "I'll get off here." He spent three years with that band and in that time picked up the clarinet. They played at the Rivoli Theater for silent films. That orchestra was directed by Helen Rhodes who later became the conductor of the Rome Symphony. He continued to play for silent films, also playing at the Princess Theater in Gadsden Alabama.

During this period Kas hooked up with Clayton McMichen and Riley Puckett and together they formed the Melody Men. Until 1928 they made two recordings a year with equipment sent down from New York City. Columbia Records set up a studio in Atlanta at 15 Pryor Street. They also played at the radio station WSB housed in the old Biltmore Hotel. With Gid Tanner they recorded the record A Day at the County Fair.

In November of 1928 he went to St. Louis Missouri to visit his brother, also a musician. In 1929 on New Year's Day, he placed an ad in Billboard for a clarinet player. A response came from Schnitz Seymour's Miniature Circus. Kas got the job, and became part of the entourage that played at show theaters throughout the Midwest. On St. Patrick's Day of the same year, Captain Lewis bought the show and it closed in Tell City Indiana. Kas then moved on to Seneca Kansas, home of trumpet players, family orchestras, and dances, and there he formed his own band. Then he joined the Jim Story Band in Lincoln Nebraska which, in addition to Kas' clarinet, boasted piano, three saxophones, trombone, trumpet, and drums.

Kas was in the house band for many radio stations, among them KGBZ in the Ory Kirwood Band, KFNF in Iowa, and KFAB in Lincoln Nebraska with old time fiddler John Holder. In 1931 he joined the staff orchestra on WNAX in Yankton South Dakota. Holder had said, "Tell Chan Gurny I sent you. They need you." He earned enough money to pay $35 for a Model T, an open roadster with no top. On a windy day he got in the roadster and drove to South Dakota arriving at 4:00 p.m. at the local radio station. Happy Jack, the old time fiddler, was on the air and Kas just happened to have his double bass in the car. "You're on the payroll," he was told by Harvey Nelson the personnel manager. He became a "doubler," playing clarinet and flute, and also creating sound effects using chimes and other inventions.

While on that station, Kas was given his own show along with singer and pianist Olive Nelson. The popular show was called "Olive and Stranger," and they played modern music. Kas also played with the Rosebud Kids, a German family named Kosta, from the Rosebud Indian Reservation. "Five dollars was pretty big and I got $10 for a dance on the side from the radio station," says Kas.

1932 found Kas at radio station XEPN broadcasting from the Yolando Hotel studio in Eagle Pass Texas, but with its tower in Piedras Negras, Mexico. In December of 1932 Kas left the 80 degree weather in Eagle Pass and arrived in Yankton, South Dakota where it was 4 degrees below zero Fahrenheit.

In 1934 he got his San Francisco Musicians' Union card, sold his car, and got a job playing on the cruise ship S.S. Cooledge which needed a bass player. They played concert and dance music and for forty-seven days travelled to Hawaii, Japan, Shanghai, Hong Kong, and Manila. Upon his return, he learned that someone needed a bass player on the boat to New York City and so he boarded the Grace Line ship Santa Elena and headed east. In New York, he stayed just long enough to find out that he preferred the prairies to "conditions prevailing" and headed westward once again, joining Jack Savage in Columbus Ohio in a band promoting Crazy Water Crystals, a medicinal tonic from Mineral Wells, Texas. England forbade commercial broadcasting, and so to sell the medicinal tonic there, the company set up a store in London but advertised from Luxembourg. Though Kasper was invited to join the band to travel to Luxembourg (they stayed there 18 months), he had met his first wife Virginia and with her, settled down in Yankton South Dakota and had two daughters. He played on radio stations around the Midwest.

From Yankton he traveled throughout the Midwest, playing clarinet in Peoria at the Talk of the Town night club for three months with the Lumber Jacks, a refined quartet with accordion, violin, and bass. In Rockford Illinois, he played on WROK, as well as at county fairs and other entertainments. He auditioned for WLS but wasn't invited to join. He continued playing for other radio station bands including KMMJ in Clay Center Nebraska and WIBW in Topeka Kansas. He then joined the Denver Symphony and while in Denver also played casuals as well as the Coors Program on KOA with the Shorty Thompson Group, a western group made up of Shorty, Sue, and Sally.

In 1943 Kasper began a stint of 2 years and 12 days on Catalina Island in the USS Maritime Service Band led by Phil Harris. After the war, times were tough, so in addition to playing at a club near Glacier Park, Kas also carried mail. In Kalispell Montana, he played at the Skylark Supper Club; later he went to Vallejo California he had a twenty-one mile commute to play at Walnut Creek restaurant with the Hiram Davis Band.

In 1953 he joined Jack Teagarden's Jazz Orchestra at the Royal Room on Hollywood Boulevard. Kas and Jack became fast friends and Kas continued to tour with him for three years (New York, Cleveland, Toronto) as well as living with Jack and his family. With the Teagarden All Stars, Kas played string bass and was featured as well on flute on such numbers as "Stardust," "Indian Summer," and "Body and Soul." Kas and Jack discovered that they had a number of strange "coincidences." Both had the same injured finger. Both had a brother named Clois. Both bought a five dollar baritone horn when they were nine years old. Both were given a baritone horn by an uncle when they were ten.

Upon moving to Las Vegas, Kas played casuals while waiting for his union card. Among other gigs, he played for Rudy Vallee ("My Time Is Your Time") and opened the Sans Souci Club on the famous Strip.

Feeling a yen to settle down, Kas accepted a job with the Tucson Symphony and was hired on the staff of the University of Arizona. In the Symphony he was Principal Bass, and at the university he taught bass for thirteen years. During that time he also participated in the American Symphony League Orchestra summer workshops, which became one of his most treasured experiences. The one-hundred piece symphony included players from every major orchestra around the United States and Europe and was led by master conductor Dr. Richard Leht from Pasadena California.

As seen already, Kasper's life has included much travel. In 1969 he walked around Ireland with a backpack and a flute. He found the Irish to be exceedingly hospitable. "The Irish won't let you walk," he recounts. While walking in Ireland he was picked up by a Catholic nun who took him right away to play with her choir. After his Irish adventure, Kas got a Eurail Pass and traveled around Europe using his music as a passport and an introduction to adventure.

In 1973 Kas moved to Winsbach Germany where he was to marry his third wife and spend the next twenty years. In Germany he taught privately with the world famous Boys Choir and had private students in clarinet, flute, and bass.

In 1993 Kasper decided it was time to come back to the United States. His plan was to go to Jacksonville, Illinois because in a Christmas card he heard that the symphony there could use a bass and there was an apartment available. After two or three months in Jacksonville, he felt he couldn't be happy there and took the bus to Hot Springs, Arkansas. Hot Springs was too spread out, so, for a person reliant on public transportation, it was not a feasible living spot. He went to Cheyenne, Wyoming, but found no music activity, so he called his old friends at the Rome Georgia Symphony and found they needed him right away for a Christmas program. He headed to Rome and found it "feasible" indeed and settled there in the middle of town, just one city block from where he played in the Rivoli Theater in 1925.

Since returning to the United States, Kasper "Stranger" Malone did not slow down his playing. From his first appearance on 78 RPM records for Columbia in 1926, to his performance on EMWorld Records in 2003 with Elise Witt, (both recorded in Atlanta Georgia), Kasper "Stranger" Malone's 77 year career in recording is unchallenged for longevity. He has been recognized by the Guinness Book of World Records for the longest career in recording history. The Georgia Music Hall of Fame presented "An Evening with Stranger Malone" highlighting his long and diverse career in music. Stranger also received the 2004 Founder's Award from the Country Music Hall of Fame.

Stranger continued to play clarinet, flute, and acoustic bass with a wide variety of Georgia musicians. And when he turned 82, he decided to learn to play the guitar. In addition to hearing his marvelous stories from the music world spanning the entire 20th century, audiences were also treated to Stranger's personal renditions of his favorite songs with personal anecdotes about the songs' history. In fact, he could tell you not only the year, but the month, when any song came out, who wrote it, who sang it, and where he was working at the time!

So, after a lifetime of following his musical muse around the country and the world, Kasper "Stranger" Malone once again made Georgia his home, and continued to delight audiences young and old with his music and his stories.

- 1 Malone and Allied Families, second and revised edition, Page 10-11. Daniel Malone 1-1 is first recorded in Charles City County at a court in Westover on 2-1-1665 [94b] giving a deposition to the court justice Robert Wynne, who is also a Malone ancestor. In this disposition Daniel is noted to be "aged 22 years or thereabouts," making his birthdate about 1643. Court justice Col Robert Wynne was at this time about 43 years old. [10, p 99] See also "The Wynne Family" Chapter for documentation.] The next Malone noted in extant records occurs ten years later in 1675 when "Mary Maloone" and Christopher Harrison witnessed an affidavit made by Rebecca Harrison. [94c2] Because no other Malones are mentioned besides these two in Charles City County until the early 1690's, and no other Mary Malone is noted in records until 40 years later in 1717 [104], it could be assumed Daniel and Mary Malone were husband and wife, though no proof of their relationship is known to exist. The next record of Daniel Malone is again found in Charles City Co., VA in 1679 when "Dan'l. Malone is a defendand in a civil suit with Eusebias King, noted in Court Orders three times in the winter and spring of 1679. [94c2] Daniel would have been about 36 years old at this time.
If Daniel Malone is indeed the progenitor of the Virginia Malones, he was probably dead by 8-3-1688 and his wife remarried.
